

Scop'd by a race of Men altogether unlike the Inhab-itants of the Eastern Continent. and only known to them at a comparatively recent period. America presents a spectacle altogether unrivalled in the General History of Nations.

Within the short space of two Centuries, what Changes have taken place!!! The gloomy forest has disappeared and we behold on every Side Splendid Cities, flourishing Villages and cultivated fields.

~~Academies and Colleges have arisen,~~ On the same Spot, where perhaps the untutored Child of nature carelessly evam'd in quest of game, are now to be seen Colleges and academies.

We behold a proud navy, the bulwark of the nation, securely lying in harbours, where formerly the simple Indian shelter'd his fragile bark.

One mighty Republic has arisen, whose morning has been far more brilliant than the coldest summer could imagine. — Other Republics have just arisen above the horizon, whose career promises to be equally glorious and honourable. —
